1 End-to-end overview

Revised by Bleuciel · 6 Nov 2026

Read the top row left to right: that is the path to a sale. Under each step is what happens if the client goes quiet; the dashed arrow shows where they go when they respond. All scenarios are on page 2. Every follow-up is gentle and spaced out, because buying a machine takes weeks or months.

Sales rep takes over · Gentle follow-up if the client goes quiet · Captured in GHL · Demo and sale

Recorded on every deal, reported to Management and the Marketing Team

Every deal: lead source and campaign, brand, owner, stage, next step. At purchase: machine model, units and why they bought. Not Interested or "not yet": the reason.
Dashboard: inquiries by source, follow-ups done on time, demo requests and show rate, conversion, sales by brand and units, pending vs. purchased vs. Not Interested. Reviewed monthly.

Respectful-contact rule: helpful, never pressure

For leads: max 2 follow-ups a week, 1 after the first week (Day 7 starts week 2); replies and appointment reminders don't count. Calls only when the lead agreed or asked. Send 9am–6pm, Mon–Sat.
Any reply stops the drip and moves the client to their next step, same rep. Buyers follow page 3. "Not yet" pauses until the date the client gives. "Not interested" at any step → Not Interested, reason recorded.

On the Ricoma landing page, a lead can book a showroom visit (straight to Visit booked) or a discovery call (straight to Discovery Call). Leads also come from expos, Demo Days, seminars, the website, Google ads and walk-ins, all tagged by source. A lead who chats but isn't hot yet gets FAQ answers and the follow-up drip, and turns hot the moment they ask about price or a visit. Every deal ends in one of two places: CLIENT PURCHASED, when the down payment is received (the balance is due before delivery) and the client moves to Client care, or NOT INTERESTED, only when the client says no. A client who got the agreement but didn't pay is not marked Not Interested either: they get a gentle drip. A quiet client is never marked Not Interested; they get gentle follow-up, one callback request, then long-term nurture until they are ready.

2 Every scenario, step by step

Revised by Bleuciel · 6 Nov 2026

Wherever a client stops, there are only four things they can do: respond, ask for more time, say no, or stay silent. This page shows where the system sends them in each case.

WHERE THE CLIENT STOPPED	WHAT THE SYSTEM DOES	CLIENT RESPONDS → NEXT STEP	CLIENT SAYS "NOT YET"	CLIENT SAYS NO	STILL SILENT AT THE END
New lead never replies first message, no answer	Follow-up drip: Day 1, 3, 7, 14, 21 (email + SMS)	Replies → Discovery Call Books from a link → Visit booked	Pause until their date, then the drip resumes	Not Interested, reason recorded	Long-term nurture
Replies but isn't hot yet chatting, no price or visit ask	Auto-reply answers FAQs and gets mobile + email, then the follow-up drip	Asks about price or a visit → Discovery Call	Pause until their date	Not Interested, reason recorded	Long-term nurture
Books on the Ricoma landing page showroom visit or discovery call	Skips "Hot lead?"; rep assigned and alerted	Showroom visit → Visit booked, reminders run Discovery call → Discovery Call at the booked time	—	—	—
Hot lead goes quiet after the Discovery Call	Day 3: rep's own message · Day 7, 14, 21: helpful drip	Replies → rep continues the Discovery Call Books → Visit booked	Pause until their date; the rep gets a task that day	Not Interested, reason recorded	30-day callback request
Cancels a booked visit before the visit	Same day: "No problem, pick a new time" + rebooking link	Rebooks → Visit booked, reminders run again	Pause until their date	Not Interested, reason recorded	Treated as a no-show (next row)
No-show missed the visit	"We missed you" + rebooking link: same day, Day 2, Day 7	Rebooks → Visit booked, reminders run again	Pause until their date	Not Interested, reason recorded	30-day callback request
Quiet after the demo visited, no next step	Day 1: thank-you + recap · Day 4: rep check-in · Day 10, 20: drip	Ready or has questions → Discuss or Send Agreement Wants a second visit → Visit booked	Pause until their date	Not Interested, reason recorded	30-day callback request
Client didn't buy agreement, no down payment	Day 3: rep's own message · Day 7, 14, 21: helpful drip	Pays → Client Purchased Wants changes → back to Discuss Agreement (terms need management approval)	Saving up or waiting for approval: pause until their date	Not Interested, reason recorded (price, chose another supplier, timing)	30-day callback request
30-day callback request 30 days after last rep contact	One Viber or SMS: "Can we give you a call?"	Replies → rep calls; client returns to the step they left off	Pause until their date	Not Interested, reason recorded	Long-term nurture
Long-term nurture not ready yet	Monthly helpful email · rep check-in every 90 days	Replies → same rep, back to the step they left off	Pause until their date	All messages stop; Not Interested	After 12 months with no response: newsletter only
Comes back after Not Interested e.g. 6 months later	Deal reopens with the same rep; history and notes are kept	Goes to Discovery Call or the step that fits	—	—	—
Repair, parts or support request an existing client	Routed to the service team, never into a sales drip. Free phone and video help first	Free online consultation first; fixed online = no charge. If not, on-site repair at Service Menu rates plus the fare (Year 1: warranty covers the repair, client pays the fare) → Client care (page 3)	—	—	—
Not a buyer job seeker, supplier, spam	Rep tags it "not a lead"; removed from the pipeline	No drip, not counted in sales reports	—	—	—

Same rep, always

A client keeps the same rep from the first message to the purchase, and again if they come back later.

"Not yet" is not "no"

For a ₱400K–₱800K decision, many clients are saving up or waiting for a partner. Pausing until their date is the most respectful option.

Silence is not "Not Interested"

A deal is marked Not Interested only when the client says no. Silence means more time, gentle follow-up, then nurture.

Year 2 onward: the same rhythm repeats every year
Every 6 months: business consultation (2 weeks after the PM visit, if any) · Once a year: anniversary review, which replaces that cycle's consultation · Care Plan renewal reminder · Monthly: tips newsletter
Upgrade talk only when a growth signal appears (full capacity, turning down orders, wants caps, older model). Never a cold sales pitch.

After a sale, the client is welcomed (the balance is due before delivery), set up in 3 days, and checked on at one week, 30 days and Month 6 (no PM yet: Year 1 is under warranty). The Care Plan is offered at Month 10 and starts when the warranty ends, and the ₱15,000 member coupon is given at the Month 12 anniversary business review (machine purchases only, no expiry). Sales handles the Care Plan, coupon and growth conversations. From Year 2, every machine follows a preventive maintenance (PM) schedule: a reminder 2 weeks before each 6-month maintenance, a call if they haven't booked, a day-before reminder, and a thank-you after the visit. Every 6 months the rep holds a business consultation, 2 weeks after the PM visit if there was one so it can use the technician's report, and the Month 12 anniversary review counts as the first; a client who is growing is offered an upgrade, which opens a new deal and goes back through page 1. The trainer files a field report after each training, and photos, videos and testimonials (with permission) go to the Marketing Team every month; technicians document each installation and training.
